

Annabelle Robertson Bio

A graduate of the University of South Carolina School of Law, Annabelle's legal practice focuses on employment and civil rights law, which includes fighting for victims of workplace discrimination, sexual harassment and other constitutional violations.

While studying at USC Law, Annabelle received both the John O. McDougall Award and the CALI Award for excellence in family law. In addition, she has interned in the Third Circuit Solicitor's Office in Sumter; the 18th Circuit Solicitor's Office in Horry County; the South Carolina Court of Appeals, under Chief Judge Michael Lockemy, and the Richland County Circuit Court, under the Honorable Alison Renee Lee.

A tireless advocate for the disregarded and disenfranchised, Annabelle is a volunteer Guardian ad Litem with Richland County. She has also volunteered as a tutor for at-risk children, worked to feed hungry children after work each day, helped provide need-based scholarships for children of military members and served as an ad hoc board member of the Sumter County Domestic Violence Coalition.

Annabelle is a domestic violence survivor who has sole custody of her two teenage daughters. They live together in Columbia and attend Eastminster Presbyterian Church.